PLAN TO COMPEL DISTRIBUTION OF EARNINGS FOUGHT

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSED TO PROVISION IN REV. ENUE BILL. MAY BRING VETO

Would Upset Conditions, Is Plan; Coalition Forces Issue in Measure.

Washington.—The biggest issue that has yet been raised in the taxation controversy in congress—and one that may bring a veto from the president—has been the provision in the pending bill—that provision adopted by the senate which would force corporations to distribute practically all their earnings.

Business men who have studied the provision are almost unanimous in declaring that it would not only upset the conditions of the country but would be a thing to become law, but that it would be forced upward and the business expansion of the United States would be seriously impaired.

A coalition of democrats and insurgent republicans has forced the proposal into the senate bill and the (Continued on Page 2)

U. S. HEIRESS IS READY TO QUIT COUNT

New York.—Miss Millicent Rogers, $40,000,000 heiress, will leave her husband of four months, Count Salvo, to be married to a New York man, and will sell for home alone, according to reports received here Friday.

The breakup of the romance is said to have come from the fact that Count Salvo, a New York newspaper syndicate, who is said to have refused to sanction the marriage, had been in the city for some time, and she refused to keep her in funds to support herself and her husband.

The rift in the romance between the count and his bride is said to have started when, just before they sailed for Europe on their honeymoon, the count said to a New York newspaper syndicate a story which he described as "How I wooed and won the $40,000,000 heiress."

FLYERS REACH ATTU ISLAND
The arrival of the aerial armada at Attu marked completion of the first of seven divisions of a 27,000 mile around-the-world journey. Despite strong winds, blinding blizzards and the loss of their former commander, Major Frederick L. Martin in the neighborhood of Chignik, Alaska, the intrepid fliers have covered 4,000 miles in 10 hours and 53 minutes, flying time alone, leaving Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal., March 17.

Motor Fumes Overcome Scores

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Pittsburgh.—Scores of persons were overcome by automobile exhaust fumes in the twin liberty tunnels through the south hills here today.

Increased traffic in the tunnels as a consequence of a strike of 2,500 streetcar motormen and conductors, caused the tubes to become choked with fumes.

When the rescue men reached the tubes they donned oxygen helmets and went in. The tunnels were closed to all traffic and soon the rescuers were busy carrying out men and women who had collapsed. They were given first aid treatment, and a number reported in a serious condition were sent to hospitals.

The fumes from the main tunnel went into the city from five thickly populated suburbs. With the street cars tied up the morning, hundreds of motorists using this inlet to Pittsburgh from beyond the south hills, were crowded into the tubes and practically every occupant of the stalled machines was affected.

Tunnels Are Closed.
When the tunnels were thrown open to the public several months ago it was discovered that air shafts, sunk from Mount Washington, were insufficient to carry off the deadly fumes. Bureau of mines, conducted experiments and found that persons passing through the tubes were affected by carbon poisoning.

The Allegheny county commissioners, when advised of today's accident, ordered the tunnels closed.

OUT OF TOWN MEN WILL RUN STREET CAR LINES.
Pittsburgh.—The city's street car company will resume streetcar service here on Monday morning, using men from other cities to replace 2,500 striking motormen and conductors. It was officially announced today. More than 500 out of town men are available to man the cars. It was said, and others will be brought in later.

FLEET MASSES TO BREAK ICE LANE
Traffic Jam Eased as Big Boats Smash Way to Clear Water.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Superior.—Breaking the ice blockade which has tied up lake traffic since Monday, a score of freighters slipped outside of the Superior-Duluth harbor Friday, either made their way into port or won through the ice to clear water beyond.

Prior to 10 o'clock Friday night, approximately 30 lake vessels were crowded into the harbor in addition to those held fast in the ice. About 20 were anchored in the harbor at Superior, Duluth and Two Harbors. About 40 more were crowded up at Sault Ste. Marie, awaiting the clearing of the situation here.

At 10 p. m., the first of the boats whistled for the icebreaker to clear the way. It was followed at intervals by others, and within half an hour a half dozen or more freighters had entered the harbor. Others outward bound, made their way to clear water, and the little city of lights gradually dwindled until only a few remained.

Early Friday night seven freighters attempted to run the blockade, bound down the lake, but only one succeeded. The concerted movement of all of the ships, a few hours later, however, broke the jam.

FLAPPERISM GIVEN DEATH WARRANT BY SUPERIOR GIRLS

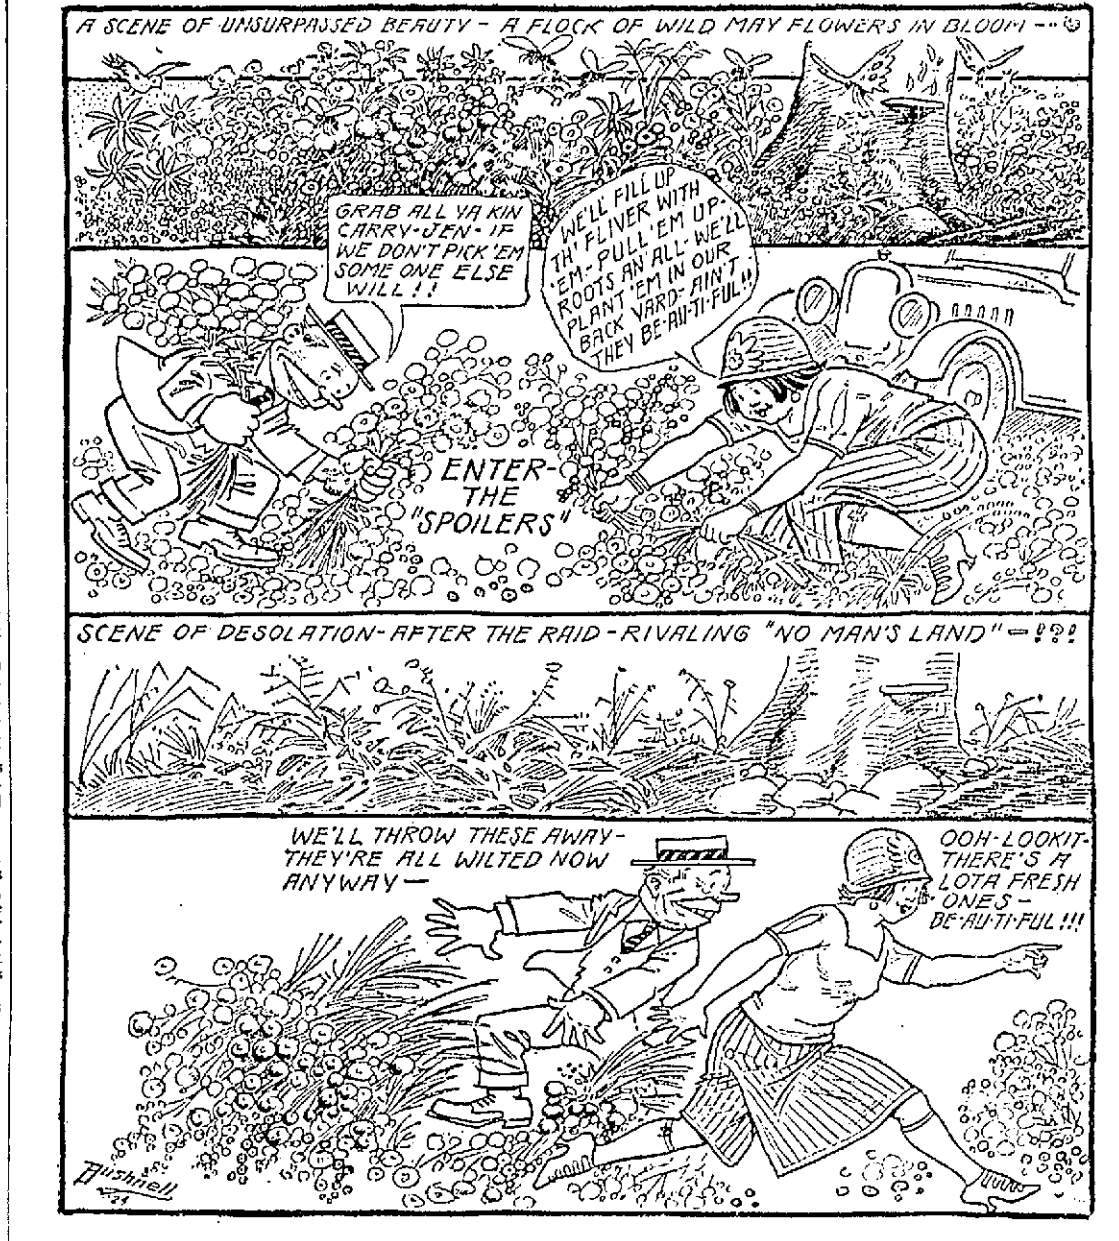

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Superior.—Over 600 girl students of Central high school unanimously pledged support Friday of a resolution outlawing "smoking, drinking and discouraging familiarity between girl and boy students."

Slender, young, rolled hose, use of rouge and the practice of powdering the face and combing the hair in a public place were also banned. Chewing gum was pronounced vulgar and a custom to be frowned upon. Putting parties were declared taboo.

The movement initiates a campaign among the young missess, led by Miss Georgia McElroy, dean of girls, to abolish objectionable and immoral conduct among high school girls in Superior.

An address by "Dad" Elliott, International V. M. U. A. secretary, before the girls provided the spark which ignited the flame of reform.

Jap Exclusion Provision Effective on July 1, Plan

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington.—The Japanese exclusion provision in the immigration bill will become effective July 1, 1924 under a new agreement reached today by house and senate conferees.

The compromise reached today is substantially that reported as the first agreement of the conferees, which was reconsidered in deference to the wishes of President Coolidge.

New action by the conference was made necessary when the house yesterday refused to approve March 1, 1925, as the effective date.

The only other important change made in the conference report was removal of the requirement that alien seamen entering ports of the United States must have landing cards identical to those of the seamen.

The report will follow the same parliamentary procedure accorded the first one. It will be reported to the house Monday, and if accepted there, will go to the senate.

FARM RELIEF ACT AT THIS SESSION, PLAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington.—Definite decision to have the house consider the McNary farm relief bill at this session of congress was reached today by republican leaders. Assurance was given supporters of the measure that it would be taken up by the house the last of next week or the first of the week following.

The farm bloc was not content with the agreement reached this week by a republican conference that "some" relief measure would be considered. It was indicated, but wanted the promise made a part of the printed record.

Later, Senator Norbeck informed the senate he had decided to withdraw his proposed motion to force a vote on the McNary farm bill as a rider to the revenue bill.

Senator Norbeck, a republican, North Dakota, who has charge of the farm relief bill in the senate said he would be satisfied with the action of the rules committee, if it was supported by similar verbal assurance from some majority leader.

BLAINE "MUM" ABOUT HIRST
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Madison.—Although reports were circulated Friday that Governor Blaine has requested A. H. Hirst, state highway engineer, to resign, the governor would make no statement on the report. The governor said he had no opinion on the report at the present time. The highway situation is expected to come to a head when the state highway commission and special legislative committee meet here next week. Assistant Attorney General F. E. Bump has been assigned to prepare an opinion on the removal of Senator George Staufenmayer as chairman of the highway committee.

PHILADELPHIA—Law observance as a means of preserving civilization was urged by William M. Hughes, war time premier of Australia, in an address.

AUTO BANDITS, IN P. O. HOLDUP, GET BOOTY OF $30,000

EAST CHICAGO, IND., IS SCENE OF DARING OPERATION.
4 POUCHES TAKEN
Payrolls Believed Gone as Robbers Escape After Theft.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago.—Seven automobile bandits who held up the East Chicago, Ind., post office escaped with booty of $25,000 and $20,000, according to estimates of post office inspectors here.

The money was being shipped by registered mail from the federal reserve bank here to the United States National bank of Indiana Harbor at East Chicago. The money is believed to have been intended to sweet at least one payroll as one shipment consisted of $20,000.

The robbers selected four registered pouches from among fifteen sacks of mail dispatched from Chicago and escaped.

The bandits followed a taxicab from the Pennsylvania railroad station to the post office and held up five employees as they were receiving fifteen pouches of mail. They selected the four registered mail sacks and fled in a maroon-colored car toward Chicago.

CAR WRECKED ON EVANSVILLE ROAD

One Slightly Hurt in Accident at Viaduct North of City.

Five men from Freeport, Ill., had a narrow escape from a head-on collision with a light sedan owned by Mrs. J. E. Rice, 224 East Emerson street, Freeport, when they crashed into the Evansville viaduct north of the city shortly after midnight Friday.

Rice was the most seriously injured, his left hand being cut.

For a while hanging close to the rear of the sedan, the boys were responsible for Rice losing control of the car which went off at the turn, and rolled over several times, the front wheels and axle becoming separated and rolling down the viaduct.

Several of the men went through the top of the car, but were only scratched.

Rice was brought to Janesville and his wound dressed at the hospital by Dr. V. W. Koch. He then left for his home together with the other men whose injuries did not require attention. The car was brought to a Janesville garage for repair.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE PLANNED AT MT. OLIVET

Many improvements are being planned in Mt. Olivet cemetery here this year, the trustees deciding on a number of jobs following a tour of the grounds Friday afternoon.

The cemetery has been greatly improved by planting of shrubbery in various parts. Some curb and gutter work will be done and cinders will be spread on the drives.

SECOND LINE WORKER HURT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Monroe, Wis., a lineman of 35 years experience, joined his co-workman, Alfred Zanto, at the Monroe hospital, when he received 6,500 volts here Friday while working on the line near this city. Slowsky was thrown 20 feet to the ground, his right arm shattered and his leg badly shocked April 14 that his right arm was amputated Wednesday. Slowsky, it is said, was climbing a pole to place a chain over a 25,000 volt wire on which the current had been turned off, but failed to remember there was current in the 6,500 volt line below the other.

NO TRACE OF MARTIN FOUND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Corvallis, Alaska.—No information as to the whereabouts of Major Frederick L. Martin, missing army flight commander, has been found by the United States coast guard cutter Albatross, which has returned to Dutch Harbor on Unalaska Island for fuel, according to a wireless message received here.

It was reported that Dr. Lorenz "tumbled" rapidly and immediately withdrew from the program, relieving the officers of the organization from the unpleasant duty of asking that he cancel his talk.

4 Are Killed in Crossing Accident

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago.—Four men lost their lives when a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger train crashed into their automobile near the Mayfield station in the northwestern outskirts of the city.

The dead were Joseph Marnello, Sylvester Sullivan, Paul Ziedell and Thomas McNamara, all of Chicago. Marnello and Ziedell were killed instantly and the others died soon after being taken to a hospital.

The crash occurred at a temporary crossing where track elevation is in progress, causing motorists to detour. Sullivan and McNamara were caught under the trucks of the locomotive and dragged two blocks.

The train, number 131, from Madison, Wis., was moving at a high rate of speed, according to the police, when the accident occurred.

The automobile was reduced to wreckage, but the house plate indicated it was owned by Benjamin Tvorah, owner of a soft drink parlor, who is in the county psychopathic hospital.

J. H. S. PLACES IN 3 MUSIC EVENTS

Girls' Glee Club Second; Madison High Schools Are Champions.

Janesville high school students placed in three of the four events in which they took part at the all state high school music contest at Madison, Friday, with the girls' glee club of 11, winning first place, Miss Hanson, taking second place.

Third place in the piano solo contest was given to Miss Stella Dixon, while fourth place in the violin solo contest went to Miss Jessie Vancor. She had a standing of 36, against the rating of 28 for the winner of first, Jane Dudley of Wisconsin high school, Madison.

Madison Central and East-side high schools won the contest, scoring 22 points. Wisconsin high school, came second with 18 points. More than 500 high school students from 60 high schools competed. Other schools winning prizes were Central, St. Ignace, and Wisconsin high, Madison.

Bring Silver Cup
Local contestants, 29 in number, reached here at noon today, bringing with them a large silver loving cup awarded the girls' glee club. Trophies were given only for first and second places. Prof. Birge of Indiana University was the sole judge in all events.

In the hand contest, for class "B" organizations, in which Elkhorn took first, Waupun placed second, while class "A" Milwaukee took first with Green Bay.

Standings of schools by points was as follows: Madison East and Central, 23; Washington high school, Milwaukee, 22; Green Bay, 18; Elkhorn, 16; Waupun, 15; Green Bay, 14; Janesville, 4.

$7,000 LOOT IN ROBBERY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Menomonee.—Seven thousand dollars was obtained when thieves ransacked the home of Orval and Willis Klester, three miles east of Clarno, Thursday night. The robbers, who entered the home as the two brothers slept, stole $6,000 in notes, $700 in certificates of deposit and $100 in cash. Other articles taken include heirlooms.

HUNDREDS PAY DIETZ TRIBUTE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Milwaukee.—Funeral services for John Dietz, 40, of W. W. Borch, who died here Thursday, were held here today in a little chapel, where hundreds of persons filed past the casket for a last look at the man who made history in northern Wisconsin in a decade ago.

His death came as the result of a lingering illness.

Today his body was shipped to Rice Lake, Wis., where interment will be made.

ELKHORN WINS FIRST
Elkhorn.—Elkhorn high school had placed in three of the four events in which they took part at the all state high school music contest at Madison, Friday, with the girls' glee club of 11, winning first place, Miss Hanson, taking second place.

25 PERCENT CUT IN INCOME TAXES PAYABLE IN 1924

PERMANENT REVISION DOWNWARD IN U. S. ASSESSMENTS.
VOTE IS 69 TO 15
Final Passage Put Across by Upper House After Long Conflict.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington.—The tax reduction bill was passed today by the senate, after a long fight.

It provides for a 25 per cent cut in income taxes payable this year and permanent revision downward of practically every federal tax.

The vote on the final passage of the bill was 69 to 15.

The democratic proposals for reduction in the income schedule, modification of the corporation tax and full publicity of tax returns constitute salient provisions of the measure.

Conference Is Next
These and other changes made by the bill as passed by the house must now be taken up at a conference between members of the house and senate.

Without a record vote, the senate adopted, last before the final roll call, an amendment by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, increasing from $990 to $2,500 the exemptions for heads of families with incomes of $5,000 and over. Heads of families with incomes of less than $5,000 now have such an exemption.

Twenty-nine republicans and two farmer-labor senators voted with the solid democratic lineup for the bill.

Opposing Votes
The opposing votes were cast by Senators Ball, Delaware; Cameron, Arizona; Calkins, Idaho; Capper, Kansas; Jones, Iowa; Edge, New Jersey; Press, Ohio; Lodge, Massachusetts; McKellar, Illinois; Moore, New Hampshire; Norbeck, South Dakota; Pepper, and Reed, Pennsylvania; Phillips, Colorado; Madison, New York; and Watson, Indiana, all republicans.

SENATE TAX BILL DEFERS FROM HOUSE MEASURES
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington.—The scope of tax reductions provided in the senate revenue bill differs slightly from that proposed in the bill as passed by the house.

The vital sections of the measure, however, were transformed in the senate to conform to the program of the democratic republicans, instead of in coalition, as compared with compromises effected by organization republican leaders in the house.

All sections in which a difference prevails between the house and senate must be worked out in conference. Provisions which were adopted by both chambers automatically stand.

Issues to Conference
The main sections which must go to conference for final adjustment are the income tax schedule; the corporation tax; publicity of returns and estate taxes.

Important provisions on which the house and senate are in practical agreement are:

A cut of 25 per cent on all income taxes payable this year.

Reduction of 25 per cent on earned incomes. The house set $20,000 as the maximum, while the senate would be applied, and the senate reduced it to $10,000.

Reductions in many of the miscellaneous and excise taxes, repeat of the estate tax, and the income tax changes effective thirty days after enactment of the bill.

Ordered Repeated
These changes of the bill were repeated by both the house and senate and the amount of revenue involved are:

Telegraph and telephone messages $24,000,000; beverages, $10,000,000; cable, $12,000,000; liquor, $14,000,000; hunting, shooting and riding garments, $18,000,000; yacht and motor boat taxes, $24,000,000; carpets, (Continued on Page 5)

TENTATIVE DATE SET FOR INQUEST
Investigation Into Player Death to Be May 20th or 21st.

Rock county's investigation of the circumstances under which Roy Player, head of the assembly department of the Fisher Body company was fatally injured on the Beloit road April 30, will open either May 20 or 21 at the city hall, Corner Lynn A. Whaley announced Saturday. In order to secure a date favorable to all those who will be called to testify at the inquest it was found necessary to put the date off to week after next.

The road was crowded with traffic at the time of the accident and there will probably be 15 or more witnesses who will be called to testify, District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie will appear for the state.

The car in which Player was riding at the time he was injured was driven by Harry M. Randall, manager of the Janesville Fisher Body company, who is a life-long friend of the dead man.

THE WEATHER

Washington.—Weather outlook for week beginning Monday: Considerable cloudiness and local showers first part, generally fair thereafter; temperature near, or somewhat below normal.

Upper Mississippi and lower Mississippi valleys: Local showers and cool at beginning; generally fair with normal temperature thereafter.

WALWORTH COUNTY

ELKHORN
Mrs. Grace Harrington.
Elkhorn—James M. Rosa and Mary T. Kenney, only daughter of Edward Kenney, were married at St. Patrick's church at 5:30 a. m. Saturday by the Rev. Father William Ketter. They were attended by Edward J. O'Brien and Veronica Finley. The bride wore a gown of tan crepe with hat to match. After a fairly brief ceremony, the couple left for a short trip. Mr. Rosa is a member of the Elkhorn band and an employee of the Frank Horton company.
Announcement has been made this week of the marriage of James Porter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Porter, to Frances Courtney, at 7:30 a. m. Saturday. The bride was escorted by her sister, Miss Courtney in Chicago as she was en route from Philadelphia to meet her fiancé and they spent the day together. The couple will make their home at Haystack, Ohio, where Mr. Porter is a mechanical engineer for the Ray Consolidated Copper company.
At 2 p. m. Saturday Grace Edith Anderson and Frank W. Strong were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, North Wisconsin street, by the Rev. T. P. Hiltunen. The couple was unattended, the bride wearing a gown of gold cloth and a corsage bouquet of lavender sweet peas. Only members of the two families were present, the date being selected because it is the birth anniversary of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Waffie, who were present. Mr. Strong is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Strong and is an employee of the Frank Horton company, and will continue to live in Elkhorn. They left for a week's trip, and will make their home in Elkhorn. The bride will make their annual visit to the Belle city lodge, Racine, Saturday, May 17. These visits are the events of the Masonic calendar and practically all Elkhorn members will attend. The motor cars will be met by a committee from the Belle city lodge and escorted into the city. The reception and ceremonies will take place in Racine's new Masonic temple.
Miss Presilla Teas, Jefferson, has been engaged to take charge of the city kindergarten the coming year. The Kukar club members will be entertained by Joseph Wales at her home on South Broad street, Monday night.
Bethel chapter, O. E. S., will give a picnic supper in the Masonic temple at 7 o'clock Tuesday. The regular meeting will follow at 8 o'clock.
The afternoon and party Thursday with Mrs. H. J. Charlton, 15 G. Hart street, B. E. Harris and Paul Hughes was a pretty affair, with snappers and tulips decorating the rooms. There were six tables of guests, prizes being secured by Miss T. W. Morrissey and Harry Dunham. A three-course luncheon was served at 5:30. The same hostesses entertained 22 guests at a similar party at the Charlton residence Saturday afternoon.
The film to be put on next Tuesday night for the benefit of the work of the local W. O. T. U. is the much lauded work of Mrs. Wallace Reid. A musical program will precede the picture. The Princess quartet will sing and Mrs. Laura Swan will read a solo. Mrs. A. B. Bell will give a humorous reading.
The musical comedy for the benefit of the Masonic temple fund, known as "The Masonic Comedy of 1924," will be given in Sprague's opera house Friday and Saturday nights, May 23 and 24. More than 40 of the young talent of Elkhorn will take

LIONS' SHOW NETS $500

At least $500 will be added to the soldiers' memorial fund of the Lions club, as the result of the successful appearance at the high school Thursday night of Raymond Hiltunen. All but 120 of the 1,450 seats in the high school auditorium were taken and was regarded as a practically full house. There will be $1,500 in the fund towards the memorial tablet which the Lions club contemplates erecting, the cost of which will be $2,500. The committee of the Lions club having charge of the show was composed of George Hiltunen, D. J. Marcus and Ralph Morse.

Dr. Raymond T. Allin

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 11, 1923.

Arthur Hafemann of Brussels, Wis., makes the following statement:

April 16, 1922, I started taking treatments at the Sanitarium for an ingrowing goitre. When I first started taking treatments I was very nervous, run down and would lie awake all night. I couldn't eat anything and I used to have fainting spells every once in a while. I had to quit working and had to stay in bed.

I had this goitre for four years and after taking two months' treatment I noticed my goitre going away. After four months my goitre had entirely disappeared and my fainting spells had also gone. I have started working again like I used to do.

ELECTRONS And Radio Vibrations

This new Electronic Radio Vibratory treatment is the last word of Electronic perfection. In using this treatment there is no shock, no electric contact with the body, although the treatment itself generates great quantities of human Electro-magnetism and can be given very mild or vigorous as the case requires. You can apply it to a baby or the most nervous person. You cannot overtreat because as conditions become normal after several treatments, the vibrations correct themselves and you are getting healthy energy with the result of a general improvement of vitality and strength.

Do not confuse this treatment with other electrical treatments you may have had. You are not securing the old form of electricity, simply the Electronic Vibrations such as come in over an aerial to your Radio Set, but at greater intensity and power.

Mrs. M. Bellie of Coleman, Wis., Makes the Following Statement

Before I came to the Radio Sanitarium for treatment I was in very bad shape, I suffered for 11 years, with pains in my chest, choking sensation in my throat; womb trouble, headaches, pain in the left arm.

Now I feel fine, can sleep good and eat good. Before, I used to be up nearly all night, could not sleep at all.

Have no pain whatever now and feeling fine in every way.

Also had a very painful corn between my toes which is also cured.

A Long Step Forward.
 Action of the county board in taking poor relief from the present archaic routine and centering it all in the hands of the head of the poor farm is a forward step toward giving better and more watchful service for the people of the county.

It may be suggested that the county has not gone far enough in this. One of the recognized needs in poor relief is a case investigator—in some counties the official is called a "welfare worker." "Case investigator" seems to fit the need more readily. For if we have a careful and conscientious administration of poor relief it must presuppose knowledge of cases. That is the real bottom of the whole matter. We have not had correlated work in this. We have fed and clothed people to their own hurt and sadly neglected many who should have been given immediate attention. It is not relief when a load of coal and a few pounds of oatmeal or roughage are sent to a sick person. But that has been done. Then there is the police side of the cases which have been mentioned in the Gazette. Police characters have received assistance. There are other ways to relieve these persons besides furnishing coal and feeding them. So it would seem that investigation is the most important factor in relief. If this is done we shall have taken the broad highway to correction of most of the evils which have made our system of poor relief a misnomer for so long.

Opposition to Coolidge at the national convention may hold a protest meeting in some telephone booth at Cleveland.

A Happy Reunion.
 Since 1841 the Methodist Episcopal church has been divided into the southern and the northern conferences. Slavery was the wedge which split the church in twain at that time. Bishop Andrews was a slave owner in Georgia; the Georgia law would not permit him to free them, and he fought for his "legal rights." So the church divided into the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. There was bitterness only ending with civil war.

From the days of reconstruction to the present there has been much discussion as to reunion. For a time there was a continuation of the division because of the church's attitude on the negro question—the question which arose after slavery had been abolished and the nation itself was reunited. Now we have the general conference in session at Springfield, Mass., accepting the report of the commission appointed last year for joining hands once more. The report was received with applause and a demonstration unequalled during the sessions. The entire reunion will not be completed for some time to come, since there are many details to consider but the eventual result will be the reestablishment of a most powerful united church force in America.

Two democratic congressmen have entertained themselves by having a fist fight. If it had been two republicans the nation would not have been aghast, but as it is, it is several times aghaster.

The Vice Presidency.
 We have been in the habit of nominating candidates for the vice presidency of the United States as a matter of political expediency rather than with the present fact that he may succeed to the office of Chief Executive of the United States. It would be hard for any person unless he had the card-indexed mind of a Railroad Jack, to remember the names of the mediocre persons who have been vice presidents since the days of the change in the constitution when the vice president was separately elected.

We had the weak and wobbly Tyler after William Henry Harrison, the mediocre Fillmore following "Old Rough and Ready" Taylor, and Johnson, a southern union democrat, succeeding the great Lincoln. Between Johnson's days and those of the political accident, Chester A. Arthur, we had one able man, Henry Wilson. Colfax was discredited by his connection with the Credit Mobilier and Wheeler who was vice president with Hayes was only a near-great statesman. Arthur, after the battle over a third term for Grant, was accepted by the dominant forces of a convention which had nominated Garfield, because he was a friend of Conkling and a part of the old New York state machine.

Handricks, of Indiana, had long been a candidate for the presidency, had been defeated by Wheeler and ran again with Cleveland because it was a part of the democratic political policy to hook New York and Indiana together. He died early in office. Thurman, "Old Handman" of Ohio who was placed on the ticket in 1855, went to defeat and Harrison had as a running mate, Levi T. Morton, a machine republican which made the Indiana and New York combination again. Adlai Stevenson in 1892, was named for political expediency in the hope that he would swing Illinois to Cleveland. Whitelaw Reid was again a political expedient for the republicans. Garrett A. Hobart was named so that he could appeal to the New Jersey vote. Theodore Roosevelt was nominated because he was the most popular man in New York state and New York was in a state of revolt against Tom Platt. Roosevelt took the nomination under protest. He was not a candidate before the convention and it was only after

Gowns Of White House Hostesses

Washington.—A dress belonging to Mrs. Warren G. Harding has just been placed on exhibit in the hall of historic American costumes in the National Museum. This dress brings up-to-date the government's unique collection of costumes worn by feminine occupants of the White House. The government now has on display a costume belonging to every mistress of the White House with two exceptions—the first Mrs. Tyler and Rose Cleveland.

The dresses are worn by plaster models and displayed in glass cases. No attempt has been made to reproduce the features of the White House ladies. In fact, each lay figure has identical features. The figures do vary in height, however, in order that the dresses may hang correctly. What is more striking, the style of hairdressing affected by each historic character is reproduced in the plaster.

The history of American hairdressing is shown in this collection perhaps more vividly and completely than anywhere else. Mrs. Washington alone commands her hair under a cap. In the next case Mrs. John Adams wears a simple pompadour, and a flat oval bun over each shoulder. Dolly Madison is shown wearing one of her well-known coiffures; a wide band encircling the head, ringlets around the face, and a small knot of curls high at the back of the head. Mrs. Sarah Van Buren, who was hostess for her father-in-law from 1839 to 1841, wears a number of long curls reaching down to her shoulder and a graceful bunch of ostrich plumes placed high at the back of her head. Mrs. James Findlay (1841), who acted as one of the hostesses for President Harrison, wears her hair in almost modern style. It is parted in the middle and a braid is coiled over either ear. And so the styles progress past the coronal head to the frizzed bang, the pompadour, and down to the marcel wave.

Practically all of the costumes are evening gowns. Here again the visitor marvels at what has been considered "full dress" in different decades. In judging each costume as typical of the time, some allowance must be made for the age and tastes of the wearer. Also, during some administrations White House families have carried out social traditions even though illness or recent bereavement made formal entertaining seem only like a stern duty. Nevertheless, each dress was undoubtedly regarded as fashionably elegant in its period.

Mrs. Washington's dignified dress is of salmon pink silk, hand painted in a design of wild flowers and insects. A fichu covers her neck and arms and she wears mitts. Whether this beautiful dress, figured at any historic occasion is not announced. Between this gown, which dates from the end of the eighteenth century, and the dress of Mrs. James Findlay of 1841, there are several evening dresses with low cut necks and short sleeves. But at the Harrison inaugural ball, Mrs. Findlay of the demurely braided hair wore a more colorful dress. The plain skirt touched the floor. The waist was plain except for a white lace collar which modestly covered her neck. The sleeves, the feature of the frock, were bigger and rounder than any modern muff, and these sausage sleeves ended in lace ruffs which fell over her hands. One of the most interesting of all the costumes is that of Josephine Lusk Johnson, the niece of Buchanan and hostess of the White House for him from 1847 to 1851. The national museum has the white moire antique silk which Josephine wore as a bride. "The simple white dress with its full circular skirt, flowing lace sleeves, and bodice which displayed her sloping shoulders, must have set off her delicate coloring and golden hair to perfection."

Styles of 1889 are represented by the inaugural ball costume of President Benjamin Harrison's wife and that of his daughter, who assisted her father at Mrs. Harrison's dinner. The gown worn by the daughter of the president at the Harrison ball had a tight bodice pointed in front, a high neck, tight elbow sleeves, and puffed skirt.

This ball dress, so prim in style, was an elaborate affair for its day. It is described as an "oyster white and yellow satin brocade dress, trimmed with panels of old gold and green velvet." With this style of costume went curled bangs.

Mrs. McKinley is represented in the government's collection by her inaugural ball gown of cream satin trimmed with point lace and embroidered with pearl beads. The figure representing Mrs. Roosevelt is in a light evening gown. Mrs. Taft is in a white chiffon, unbrodered for her in the Philippines and worn at the Taft inaugural ball. Mrs. Ellen Wilson is represented in a white evening gown, and Mrs. Edith Wilson in dignified black velvet. Mrs. Harding's costume is white satin trimmed with crystals and black tulle. It was worn by her at the first formal reception of the Harding regime.

This remarkably complete collection is invaluable from an historic point of view. Historians say very little was written about feminine dress in early decades of the republic. When President Monroe's daughter became a White House hostess the complete account of the affair in a Washington newspaper read as follows:

"Married." On Thursday evening last in this city, by the Reverend Mr. Hawley, Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur, Esq., New York, to Miss Hester Maria Monroe, youngest daughter of James Monroe, President of the United States."

Society folk of other cities no doubt learned what the White House bride wore by letters from friends in Washington and from gossip reports. The accessories of the White House costumes, carefully selected and laid in the atmosphere of realism in the museum's collection. Marie McMonroe (1847-1852) whose costume is an evening dress of sky blue silk, holds in one hand a dainty lace handkerchief and a tiny silver vinaigrette. Mrs. Van Buren (1839-41) dressed for a reception in a voluminous dark blue velvet gown, carries a lace handkerchief that measures a yard square. Betty Bliss, (1849-51) daughter of Zachary Taylor, carries a lawn handkerchief with a deep hem and the name Betty embroidered in script letters half an inch high.

Personal appeals from friends of President McKinley that he accepted. One easily forgets the vice presidential candidates who ran on the ticket with Bryan.

Other men have been named as vice presidential candidates—men who have not been candidates for the presidency or ever spoken of in that connection. Coolidge was a candidate for the presidency in 1920, and that he was good presidential timber was fully agreed. Outside of Calvin Coolidge no man has served as a vice president who has been mentioned as a presidential candidate in any seriousness, except Roosevelt, for the past 60 or more years.

We are confronting the same situation in 1924. We have had but one man mentioned in connection with the vice presidency whose name carried presidential weight—that is former governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois. Others have all been in the line of mere political expediency and nothing more. But the seriousness of a situation which in the last 125 years has given us six out of 36 presidents from the vice presidency, ought to be appreciated. Along with Calvin Coolidge the best man possible in the United States should be nominated.

Never mind; the air will soon be filled with the fragrance of the lilac and then we shall know for sure.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

IF THEY COULD WRITE.
 What glorious news they'd have to tell
 If only they could write today.
 Those who have gone after to dwell
 Where all the glorious spirits stay.
 In fancy here I see them now
 What Mary Jane would pen for me
 "I've touched the hem of Jesus' gown,
 The way they did it at Galilee."

"I've smiled at Mary Magdalene,
 She said to me, 'The mothers here;
 And John the Baptist I have seen,
 And all the saints that you revere.
 Oh, there is much to see and do,
 There's something always going on—
 Tell all the boys and girls I know
 I've shaken hands with Washington."

"Longfellow has his children's hour,
 And Eliza makes us laugh with glee.
 I wish I had some one to answer
 To picture everything I see.
 But when you take your little down
 And read of Matthew, Mark or John,
 Or any saint that gained the crown,
 Just think I've seen them, every one!"

No letter comes from Marjorie,
 And yet I fancy you and then
 The glorious tales she'd tell to me
 If such a misdeed she could pen.
 And thinking thus, I feel content,
 To hear the loveliness and wait.
 Because I know her days are spent
 In all the company of the great.

HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, MAY 12, 1924.

According to the astrologer, who should be a fortuneteller, those who apply wisdom in every day affairs, Saturn, Venus and Mercury are all in benefic aspect.

It is a day most auspicious for the ambitions of persons paid to guide and who may expect to succeed in their desire to attain, even if they hope for romance. Labor is subject to a fairly promising direction of the stars and indication concerning the right treatment of women in industry is to bring satisfactory results. It is predicted.

Ancient lore found this way most favorable for the wedding of new clothes, since it made for becomingness, charm and best of all, durability.

Theaters and places of amusement should find this a most propitious planetary government under which to bring out new plays or to introduce new actors.

This is read as a fortunate day for the stirring of contests and wars, and should benefit most from this direction of the stars.

Many new leaders are to win foremost places within the year, it is prophesied and the aspects promise, also, that in the unimpaired world new favorites will rise to fame.

Saturn again warns of labor difficulties which may lead to strikes in certain parts of the country.

All the signs appear to forecast a period when thrift in business and domestic life may be most important.

Hotels should benefit during the summer months when there will be an extraordinary volume of travel.

Warnings are given that earthquakes and sudden storms may be expected all through the coming months.

After the spring solstice there may be international problems which will greatly disturb the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in the coming year to conserve financial resources. The forecast promises a pleasant, serene twelve months.

Children born on this day probably will be ambitious and impatient to attain the good things of life. They are likely to be successful, are willing to work hard for whatever they acquire and generally win success.

If we'd screen all our windows
 And our doors, by the way;
 We wouldn't have any levers
 Nor doors to say.

When Dame Fortune deigns to smile,
 Her daughter pouts and frowns;
 Demanding hints of latest style
 And such expensive toys.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES.
 Young people with blackheads (comedones) and pimples (acne) have as rich and pure blood as young people without any skin trouble, and there is no reason to believe that constipation, the character of the diet, or bad habits are accountable for the annoying condition. Blackheads are oil glands ("pores") obstructed by the natural oil of the skin (sebum) and made or less moist and debris. Pimples are produced by the infection of such obstructed oil gland ducts by the ordinary pus producing germs which are always present on the face and on other moist skin.

Diet, the regulation of the bowels by the use of proper food, and general hygiene are no more important in the treatment of acne than in the treatment of other minor ailments. Fatty, greasy foods, sweets, etc., have been excluded from the diet by good old doctors from away back yonder, for what reason and to what purpose nobody knows. And it is an unfortunate fact of inability to suggest anything that would help in the treatment of the "child's blood needs purifying"—though what that means, heaven only knows. The most, most perfect blood I have ever gazed at came from the veins of healthy young people with acne.

Tanning or mild sunburns is one of the best remedies for acne, especially when combined with the use of a good skin medicine. The skin should be opened, after touching it with iodine, by pricking it with a needle which has just been flamed to sterilize it. The face should be washed with a good out of the face should be bathed for several minutes with very hot water, in which boracic acid powder has been added. The face should be dried by blotting with a soft towel. Following this, if possible, a sun bath of 20 to 30 minutes. All this may be repeated every two or three days.

Q. What is the best season of the year to make a trip down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in a canoe?
 A. C. S.

Q. The Weather Bureau says that all things considered, it is probable that the fall months would be most satisfactory to make the trip in. Storms are less at that period of the year and the waters are usually at moderate stages.

Q. Are the wireless towers at Arlington taller than the Washington monument?
 A. L. H.

Q. One is higher and two are lower. The highest tower at Arlington is 509 feet, and the other two are 426 feet. The Washington monument is 555 feet high.

Q. Is there any way of estimating the number of women in this country who do laundry work for a living?
 A. W. C.

Q. Census figures for 1920 show 120,715 wash women employed in households and 240,756 not in households.

Q. Is there a town in the Klondike named Platt?
 A. C. H. M.

Q. There is a town in Alaska by this name. It has a postoffice but mail is collected in Fairbanks. It may be located on the map by 62 degrees north latitude and 150 degrees west longitude.

Q. In what states is the old-fashioned method of water mowing used?
 A. W. M.

Q. There are no states in the Union where the custom as it was known in the early days, is now known. It is now known as "water mowing" and is used as a signal for all fires and lights to be put out. This was because heat was obtained from open fires, and the measure was necessary to prevent fire.

Q. According to Danvers's Dictionary, some states have enacted legislation in regard to the custom, but it is used generally as a convenient method of letting the inhabitants know what time of night it is.

Q. His science decided whether or not there are any sex differences in regard to intelligence?
 A. M. M.

Q. No such sampling of the adult population has been made. It has been made as was afforded by the draft and we are not in a position to compare the average adult man or woman in regard to intelligence.

Q. Colored people are known to be and girls show that in tests calling for quick accurate work, girls have on the average slightly surpassed the boys of the same age. This may be due to the fact that girls mature at an earlier age than boys. According to Binet tests, boys and girls average almost the same year by year. The college women on the Alpha test score on the average a few points lower than college men, but this may be due to the fact that the Alpha test was framed for men and includes subjects that are outside women's interests. At present there is little evidence of any significant differences between the sexes on this point.

The Four Stragglers

By FRANK L. PACKARD

Copyright, 1923, Geo. H. Doran Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate.

CAPTAIN FRANCIS NEWCOMBE, ex-officer in the great war, who breathes into society, but who is really shadowy, noted figure of the underworld, and had charge of various big steals that have set London agog.

POLLY CREMARRE, noted French thief, who has met Newcombe in the backwaters of the war, along with his thefts on his own account.

RUNNELLS, a valet, who had done some big thefts on his own account.

THE FOURTH STRAGGLER, who hears the crooks agree to combine after the armistice, and who disappears.

POLLY WICKES, a flower-girl, whom Newcombe has met and sent to America to a finishing school, with the idea of insuring social contacts of the best before he leaves the land after securing some big hauls. She is the friend of

DORA MARLIN, daughter of an eccentric millionaire, and her guest on a big show place on the Florida Keys, where

Mrs. WICKES, the mad magnate, has buried more than half a million dollars, the existence of which she had been obliged to tell her beautiful ward.

HOWARD LOCKE, son of a big business man, takes Newcombe and Runnelles to Florida on his steam yacht. He falls in love with Polly.

That phrase had come hours ago. It had scorched itself upon her brain—as a branding iron at white heat sears its imprint upon quivering flesh, never to be effaced, always to endure. She was nameless. It wasn't that she had not always known it—she always had. But it meant now what it had never meant before. Until now it had been something that, since it must be home, she had striven to hear with what courage was hers, and denying its right to embitter life, had sought to imprison it in the dim recesses of her mind, but now in a instant it had broken its bonds to stand forth exposed in all its ugliness; no longer captive, but a vengeful captor, claiming its miserable right from now on to control and dominate her life.

She had thought of love—it would have been unnatural if she had not. But she had never loved, and therefore she had thought of it only in a vague way. Dream love—faintly. But she loved now—she loved this man who had so suddenly come into her life—she loved Howard Locke.

As a happiness, greater than she had realized, happiness could ever be, had unfolded itself to her gaze, and love had become a vibrant, personal thing, so wonderful, so tender and so glad a thing, that she had felt the world was little and insignificant and empty; but even as the glory of it and the joy of it had burst upon her, she had been obliged to turn away from it—not very bravely, for the tears had seeped her as she had run from the living room—because there was no other place to go, because it was something that was not hers to have.

She could never be the wife of any man.

She was nameless.

Why had she ever found it out? It might so easily have been that she would have never known. That—that no one would ever have known. She was sure that even her guardian did not know.

She smiled her face deeper in the pillow as she cried out in anguish. She could have had happiness—then—and it would have been honorable for her to have taken it. It wouldn't it?

She lay quiet for a little while. Now that was cowardly, selfish. She really loved this man. She should be glad for his sake that she knew the truth, glad now of the day when she had said out. She remembered that day. It seemed to live more vividly before her now than it ever had before. Mrs. Wickes—her mother—had—had—drinking. The words had been a slip of the tongue, a slip that her mother, owing to her condition at the time, had not been conscious of. Mrs. Wickes had been drinking; recounting some sordid crime that had remained famous even among its many fellows in Whitechapel, and, in placing the date, had stated it was two years after Mr. Wickes had died. Later on, in the same glib account, she had again referred to the date, but had placed it this time by saying that she, Polly, was a baby not more than a month old when it had happened.

And on that day when she had listened to her mother's tale she had said to herself, "What a lie!" She could not have been more than twelve—but she was very old for twelve.

The slums of London had seen to that, and so, the next day, when her mother had been more herself, she had asked Mrs. Wickes, more out of a precocious curiosity perhaps than anything else, for an explanation. Mrs. Wickes had flown into a furious rage.

"Mind yer own business!" Mrs. Wickes had screamed at her. "The likes of you ain't got no right to ask me no questions! You got to be satisfied with what I say, and you got to be satisfied with what I say!"

"Ain't I takin' care of you? If ever you say another word I'll break yer back!"

She had never said another word.

Now that this crisis in her life had come—what now? She did not know. She had been trying to think calmly, but her brain would not obey her—it was crushed, stunned. It ached even in a physical way, frightfully.

She raised her head suddenly from the pillow in a sort of ludicrous amazement—and immediately afterward sat bolt upright in bed. The telephone here in her room was ringing. At this hour it could suddenly seem to stop beating. Something—something must be wrong—something must have happened—Dora—Mr. Marlin!

It was still ringing—ringing insistently.

She sprang from the bed, and, running to the phone, snatched the receiver from its hook.

"Yes, yes," she answered breathlessly. "What is it?"

Cheese Custard—Scald one cup of milk, add one cup cheese melted, the yolk of three eggs well beaten, a little salt, and lastly the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, and bake until stiff and slightly browned.

Jam Cake—One cup sugar, one and three-fourths cups flour, one cup jelly or jam, four tablespoons soft cream, one-third cup shortening, four eggs, one-half nutmeg, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon soda stirred into cream just before mixing. Do not cream sugar and shortening separately and stir all ingredients together except eggs, which are to be beaten separately and added. This cake may be baked in a loaf, if you like it in a loaf allow at least 15 minutes to the baking.

SUGGESTIONS

Steel wool is excellent for cleaning the bottom of pots and pans.

Use old ketchup for shoe polishing.

Save the old chamomile gloves for polishing and keeping jewelry clean. The chamomile quickly removes dirt and black dirt from chains and rings.

Save your round oatmeal boxes until time for canning tomatoes. A quart jar fits into one. If you will cut tomatoes away this, this mixture will be no danger of the light spoiling them.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. W. H. writes: "My baby is 12 months old and weighs 25 pounds. He has 16 teeth. It seems to be doing nicely, but I notice that when he sleeps he perspires a lot, and also when he cries. When he wakes the pillow is wet with sweat. He has a good appetite, eats everything I put in front of him, and sleeps out of doors all day, which are to be beaten separately and added. This cake may be baked in a loaf, if you like it in a loaf allow at least 15 minutes to the baking.

From the outline above there seems to be nothing the matter. The most natural conclusion is that you keep him too warmly dressed, or in too warm a room. Also you do not tell me what he eats. Perhaps if you would send for the feeding leaflet and compare it with the baby's diet it might find you could make some beneficial changes.

Mrs. R. W. writes: "My baby is three months old and weighs 15 pounds, 12 at birth. I nurse her four or five times and give a bottle the other two or three feedings. My formula is nine tablespoons of milk, five of water and one teaspoon of sugar. She seems content but is very constipated. When I use a suppository I get good results, but I would like to know what you would advise? Kindly send me the leaflet. I enclose stamp."

I am so sorry, but I found no address for stamped, envelope, and possibly if the stamp were in loose it has been lost. I ask my readers always not to send loose stamps; in opening so many letters and sorting them, stamps slip out and are lost. Won't you ask for this later, as I have no leaflets suitable for so young a baby.

Mrs. W. H. The baby is not being fed very well. I should, in this case, nurse regularly every three hours, and after each nursing supplement the meal with one ounce milk diluted with the same amount of water and a small amount of dextrin-maltose. One teaspoon at each feeding is too much sugar, when it is being used as a supplementary feeding.

It would be better to mix the whole amount for the day, add two teaspoons for the whole day's feeding, and then divide into enough bottles for the six feedings. The dextrin-maltose will help the constipation and you can use a few drops of milk of magnesia in one bottle. Later you can begin fruit juices.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 16 and have been going with a boy of 20 for three months steady. Another friend called up and wanted me to go for a ride and he saw me. The next time he saw me he seemed real angry but we made up with any one else.

I have not come with any one since, but he seems different now. I did not blame him then but the other night I was out walking with him and he came to me and was with another girl. He spoke in the usual way. He used to call up every day but he has not lately. Do you think he cares for me any longer?

HEART-BROKEN.

The boy has certainly grown indifferent to you or he would treat you as he did formerly. Since he has broken his promise to you, consider your agreement not enjoy your company. Discontentment shows in one's face you know. I am inclined to think you exaggerated about the work you do. Probably you have a great many tasks, but if you are honest surely you will find that your mother is a very busy woman. Unless you put love into the home, you cannot expect to find happiness there. The more you are willing to serve your parents, the more willing you will find them to try to please you. Keep on with your school work. If you leave now you will regret it all your life. You are too young to take a position, and even if you could work now your future would be spoiled from lack of education. It is most difficult to earn money at home. You might get something to do, or put up with some of the people.

State Calls Halt in Carp Fishing; Market in Slump

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

HARRY HEILMAN, slugging ace of the Tigers is topping both major league batting averages, according to the averages compiled by the Associated Press for games up to and including Wednesday of this week. The champion of the American League is hitting at the great pace of .403 with the season's three weeks out. He has hit safely 34 times so far this season. His nearest competitor in his league is Ken Williams of the Browns, who is smacking .328. Then comes Joe Harris of the Red Sox with .327. Williams has slipped down to sixth with .285. In the National league, Zach Wheat of Brooklyn is occupying the top rung with a percentage of .357. He passed Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals last year's slump, who was out of the game with a sore thumb. Kelly, the swifter of the Giants, is second with .340. In the American association, Bunney Riel of Kansas City has made 25 hits in 25 games for an average of .427 with Tyson of Louisville trailing him with .402.

BARRY RUTH still is clouting the old horsehide ball with a mighty wallop. The high megal of sweat now has a total of six home runs and is ahead of his record of two years ago. In the record of league there is a merry race for the circuit hitting honors. Three players are in the lead, each with five home runs. They are Jacques Fournier of the Browns, "Doc" Williams, the Wisconsin boy with the Phillies, and "Gabby" Hartnett of the Cubs. There is also a tie for first in four base taps. Two men have five each: Irv Russell of Columbus and Kierke of Minneapolis.

FOR ONCE, Eddie Collins, captain of the Chicago White Sox, is not at the head of the column of stolen base holders. He is being topped right now by Phil Barrow of the same team, who has seven to Eddie's six. Each man is far out in the lead ahead of all other players. Barrow has made so far in the National outfit than in the junior circuit. Max Carey of the Pirates has the edge so far on George Grantham of the Cubs, having eight steals to five by Grantham. Either they must be more lax in the American association or Neum of St. Paul is a demon on the bags in stealing that outfit with 10 stolen bases.

French Olympic authorities agreed to permit American runners to take part in the 100-meter race at the University of York Olympic track meet.

DIAMOND SPARKLES.

John McGraw, pursuing fourth consecutive pennant which no major league team has ever captured, faces test of his baseball genius in his western swing of clubs which began Saturday at St. Louis and will end May 25 at Cincinnati, after first circuit series of present campaign. With only one game left to play, McGraw took home last night's win to face teams which have grown strong by conflict among themselves. McGraw's team, the St. Louis Cardinals, are leading the National league with a record of 10 wins and 4 losses. SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAPPERS.

Used Johnson of Iowa knucks out quickly. Romero, Chicago heavy-weight, in New York (7-10). After four days' preliminary training for bout May 24 with world champion, Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, leaves Saturday for Grand Beach, Mich., for intensive training. Gibbons, New York, awarded decision over Tommy Cleary, Sacramento, at Sacramento (4). Johnny Bull, New York, former bantam and flyweight champion, defeated Frankie Donnell, New Orleans, at New Orleans (15). New York state athletic commission suspends Harry Greb, middleweight, for 18 months and 100 days for fighting a Negro, for six months.

A STAR IN THE MAKING

There is no sale for the carp at the present time. Commissioner E. H. Hall told the Gazette Saturday morning over the telephone. "It is customary at this time of the year to have a slump in the market. With warm weather coming on, and the difficulty of keeping the fish on warm days, it is the natural thing to stop the sales inasmuch as there is no way of storing the fish."

Some sportsmen of southern Wisconsin received, however, on leaving the reports, that since the selling was started for the purpose of clearing rough fish from the lake in order to improve game fishing, the selling process should be in full blast at this time. They point out that the carp will be spawning within the next three weeks, thereby making this period valuable in their extraction from the waters to prevent further multiplication of carp.

According to the office of the commissioner, 4,335,000 pounds of carp have been taken from Lake Koshong since last fall which have sold for $247,576. The state received 20 percent of this or $49,515. Sixty-five million additional pounds were taken from Lake Koshong, which gives another $30,000, making a total of $80,000.

There are now seven crews working the lake and two on the river. They have equipment that is valued in total at about $100,000. Sixty-five men are employed in the new industry.

Italian Speedster for Oshkosh Races

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Oshkosh—Yankee boat racing men are making feverish preparations to defend their reputations and records against challenges from England, France and Italy in an event planned for this city July 3, 4 and 5 during the 17th annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association.

The deal was made from the office of Secretary John Ward of the International Motor Yacht club, which is being held April 10. The most notable of the four boats mentioned as challengers is the Italian Tachetta XXII. This boat is credited with the European and incidentally with the world's records in that class of 35 knots per hour, a speed considerably faster than American 25 knot boats have made.

Phil Becker, Jr., of Peoria, is said to be altering his 151 champion in order to meet these European cracks at the Oshkosh regatta. Becker's new boat in this vicinity are preparing defenders. One is being planned by Fred W. Schramm, Milwaukee, and Martin Drueger, Racine. The other is being planned by Charles P. Huxley of Muscatine, Ia., who holds all world's records in the 220-310 class. It is possible that the race will be held at Chicago, Cincinnati, New Orleans and other points may get entries ready for this international affair.

The regatta will be the first event of international character ever staged by class boats.

Madison—Athletes of the University of Wisconsin who make outstanding scholastic records will be recognized if plans suggested by T. E. Jones, director of athletics, to the university council are followed. Director Jones recommended that the university should award the athlete in each class making the highest scholastic record.

Under the plan devised by Jones, a senior, junior, sophomore and freshman student who competes on intercollegiate teams will be given an award which will place him among the highest students of the school.

Coch Jones suggested the new plan in line with that carried out by the National Athletic Union, which makes an award each year to the senior athlete in each school in the conference who has the highest scholastic record.

Director Jones is desirous of stimulating scholastic interest among students of undergraduate classes. He believes that the plan will encourage athletes for better scholastic work if carried out.

WALTER CURRIS

By NORMAN E. BROWN

A high school lad, brave of heart and speedy of leg, has sounded a warning to older athletes of this country—if not the world—by his work on the elder paths.

He already clinches over 25 gold medals and prizes won in scholastic events. For four years he has been the outstanding star of the high school division of the annual Penn Scholastic games, the National event of the track and field sport in the east.

This young Mercury is Walter Burris of Haverburg, Pa., Technical High school.

The other day, in the Penn game at Philadelphia, Burris took the mark as anchor man for his school's relay team in the mile event. The third member of his team was running four yards behind a Brooklyn boy when he handed his baton to Burris. Burris not only ate up that four yards but finished ahead of the Brooklyn star, won the race for his team and helped hang up a new record for the event in the Penn games by cutting the total time for the mile down to 2 minutes and 25 seconds, a second and two-fifths below the mark set by Stuyvesant High school of New York.

The "victory" gave Burris' team the class B, high school relay championship of the U. S. which means much to high school athletes if it doesn't to the sporting world in general.

Turning defeat into victory is not a new sensation for Burris. Those who saw last year's games are still discussing his super-human effort in the same relay event.

When the Haverburg lad took the mark to run the last quarter of the relay, he watched his team's struggle in vain to close up a gap of 35 yards between himself and the leader. The Tech boy was running first—in eighth place. The race seemed hopelessly lost.

Burris took the baton and seemed to fly over the last quarter. He not only cut down that 35 yard handicap but won the race. From last to first place in the final quarter.

His Wonderful Form

The recent victory marked Burris' fourth participation in the annual relay. In all these events and the lesser ones in which he has run, Burris has shown remarkable form, according to experts. Little fear is expressed that he has developed too rapidly, as some school boy athletes have.

He has a perfect build for a runner, is well but not over-developed, and trains and runs easily. He rarely seems to punish himself, even in the most grueling races.

"This from such material that Olympic champions come."

Badger Tracksters Lose to Minnesota

Minneapolis—Coming through with seconds and thirds where most needed, the University of Minnesota track team sprung a surprise by losing out Wisconsin, 69 to 66, in a dual meet at Northrup field, Friday, on a bluish track and in a cold drizzle. The final event on the program, the javelin throw, in which Minnesota carried off first and second, swung a victory to the Gophers. From the outset, the lead passed back and forth between the two schools and kept the handful of spectators on edge throughout.

High School Enters Team in State Golf Tournament

Janesville high school will be represented in the second annual golf tournament of Wisconsin high schools this year. It was announced Saturday morning by Coach Edward H. Gilson. The meet will be held at Racine early in June.

Billy Wilcox and John Matheson have already been selected to represent the Blues. A third boy will be chosen.

Janesville competed last year and made a good showing.

Expect Big Entry for School Golf

Racine—The second annual Wisconsin state high school golf tournament will be held here June 6 and 7, on the Washington park public links. It will be under auspices of Racine high school and full sanction by the W. I. A. A. Last year, there were 31 schools entered, including Janesville, Racine winning first place. A much larger entry is expected this year.

This year's meet will be conducted along the same lines as that of last year. All places will be determined by medal play. The qualifying round on the first morning of the meet is to furnish all contestants an opportunity of going over the entire course and becoming acquainted with it. A medal will be given for low quality score. Other awards will be gold medal for first place, silver for second and bronze for third and fourth. The team having the lowest gross score in the championship round will receive a loving cup.

Entries close May 28.

BIG TEN GOES GOOD.

Chicago—The Big Ten conference is doing more for making athletics of universal benefit than any other college agency. Melding H. Yost, Michigan athletic director, asserted in an address before the Michigan alumni of Chicago Friday night.

Municipal Golf

In Scotland everyone plays Golf—it is the universal game, beloved and enjoyed by all, giving healthful pleasure to rich and poor alike. This same condition, as applied to Golf, is rapidly coming about in this country, through the medium of a Municipal Golf Course, so that in America Golf is no longer a "Rich Man's Game."

There is about to be developed an eighteen hole Municipal Golf Course in Janesville at beautiful Riverside Park. The course, as proposed, is one of the most ideal natural Golf courses in the country, according to experts who have viewed it. There are plenty of natural hazards, rolling ground, water front, in fact everything that should be incorporated in a good Golf course.

That this proposed Municipal Golf Course is striking a popular chord may be evidenced in the fact that it has already been officially endorsed by the Lakota Club, American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Kiwanis Club and Elks Club, with a combined membership of several thousand individuals. Thousands will play and it will be everyone's play ground.

Naturally, when the course is opened, there will be a great demand for Golf Clubs, Golf Balls, Sweaters, Shoes, Hose and other Golf paraphernalia. The demand will be large, but not too large for the Sheldon organization to care for because we have already made all arrangements to have in stock a complete assortment of Golf equipment and information for beginners, amateurs and expert Golfers.

From time to time, we will bring Golf experts here to demonstrate and inform beginners—this service will be absolutely free. Sheldon's will be headquarters for Golfers in Janesville—Golf interest off the course will center here.

To get the links started and defray additional expense, coupon books at $10 each are being sold. The coupons contained in each book will entitle the bearer to play 50 rounds of Golf of 18 holes or less. Coupon books will be on sale at Sheldon's next week. Boost for and support Municipal Golf.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM THE SOUTHERN WISCONSIN FARMERS

BADGER DAIRYMEN FAVOR THE SILO

Wisconsin Had 100,000 Silos in 1923—Double Number in New York State.

Badger dairy cows eat twice as much corn each year as do their less fortunate sisters doing duty in the next highest silo state.

According to the assessor's report of 1922, Wisconsin had 100,000 silos, which is nearly double the number in New York. Wisconsin dairymen are depending more and more upon silos for the storing of feed for dairy cows in both summer and winter. In 1915 there were about 50,000 silos in the state; in eight years the number has been nearly doubled.

Dodge, Sheboygan and Waushara counties have a relative number of silos. Dodge has an average of 92 silos for each 100 farms, Waushara and Sheboygan counties possess 88 and 86 silos each. Dodge county has 84 silos per 100 farms.

Some of the counties in the new north have made considerable progress in the construction of silos. This is particularly true of Polk and Shawano counties which each have 67 silos per 100 farms, and of Barron, 51 silos per 100 farms, each possessing 55 silos per 100 farms.

A Silo State

Wisconsin has been a silo state for over 45 years. The first silo built in the state, this silo was a trench six feet wide, six feet deep, and 20 feet long. The first above-ground silo was built by Dr. L. W. Weeks of Oconomowoc in the summer of 1880. He built two silos of stone and concrete to a depth of 12 feet and with a wooden superstructure double boarded on the inside. The entire height of each silo was about 20 feet.

The third silo to be erected in the state was built by John Steele of Alameda. Dodge county. Steele's silo was formerly a root cellar and held about 25 tons. It was first filled with ensilage in August, 1880.

In the next year the walls of the old root cellar up into the hay mow so that the top was even with the eaves of the barn. This made the size of the silo 12 by 16 by 25 feet. The silo was built above ground and 11 feet below. This silo was of stone construction, double boarded, with bullock paper between the boards. The silo was built in continuous use ever since and it appears to be just as good today as the day it was built. It was never had a bit of frozen silage in its silo.

First Round Silo

To Steele goes the credit of having a round silo. In 1885 he built a round silo 15 feet in diameter and 30 feet high. The silo was built of staves two by six inches in size and it was not until 1900 that it was used for ensilage three seasons.

H. C. TAYLOR ON TOUR IN EUROPE

Dr. H. C. Taylor, formerly chairman of the department of agricultural economics in the University of Wisconsin, is in attendance at the Biennial Conference of the Association of the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome, Italy.

From Rome, Taylor will proceed to Liverpool, England, for the meeting of the Association of European Cotton Exchange, May 19. This association is the outcome of the meeting of the American Cotton Exchange in Washington, D. C., last summer, which led to the establishment of the Universal Standards for cotton. All of the associations in Europe that signed the Washington agreement to use the American standards as the Universal Standards, formed themselves into an association in order that it might be easier for the department of Agriculture to deal with them.

Later Taylor will visit the various European cotton associations that have signed contract with the Sec. of Agriculture. Technical cotton men from the U. S. Department of Agriculture will accompany him and give demonstrations of the cotton standards in all of the countries of cotton manufacture in Europe.

Taylor is also planning to spend a month going over to Ireland, in order that he may be in a position to pass judgment on what has happened to British agriculture since he was in Europe 25 years ago.

NEW YORK PRODUCERS FORM CHEESE POOL

A sister to the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' Federation has been born in New York state.

The St. Lawrence County Cheese Producers' association, Inc., formed by the federation of 26 co-operative cheese producers' associations, will control about 600,000 pounds of the New York cheese this year. St. Lawrence is one of the heaviest cheese-producing counties in the Empire State, about one-third of the product of the state being produced there.

Of the local associations, 18 have been organized recently around local cheese factories with the state of the New York State Bureau of Markets and the county agent. The remaining eight associations, all in one township, were formed about 10 years ago, and were also a federation. In the past were handled through a cheese-cream board made up of one representative from each one of the local associations. The board was a body which was determined on bid-and-asked quotations. This method of arriving at prices proved quite satisfactory and it is with the thought of carrying on marketing activities a step farther that the larger federation has been formed. The plans being developed include providing for the marketing of the product.

Special efforts are being made by the new federation to bring the delivery of a better quality of milk to each factory so that it can then plan an adequate supply of their product.

COOPERATION PROMOTES MARKETING CONFIDENCE

Practically it requires faith in action, marketing plans plus operating experience to teach the farmers of the United States how to settle down to patronizing the best marketing system.

Not only Americans, but farmers of the world over, are suspicious of private marketing systems when these systems become highly developed and efficient. To Odorous Macklin, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, the farmer's dissatisfaction with middlemen centers in an unwillingness to believe and reveal to his neighbors, tests, grades, costs, profits, and all other assertions made to explain the results of their operation and justify the price paid.

Macklin compares the man who is intensely suspicious of all marketing to one who drives a horse and wagon, yet curses the horse for refusing to pull the wagon. His misgivings about the horse come from a mistaken notion as to the relation of the horse to the movement of the load.

Co-operation Removes Suspicion

When a farmer is so suspiciously overcome these difficulties and to restore the farmer's confidence in marketing systems, the records of the co-operative system, made by the farmer through his own organization and he has power to act if there are errors or falsifications.

When a farmer is so suspiciously overcome these difficulties and to restore the farmer's confidence in marketing systems, the records of the co-operative system, made by the farmer through his own organization and he has power to act if there are errors or falsifications.

Denmark Good Example

The experience of Denmark, a co-operative Macklin cites as a good example of the value of co-operation in establishing confidence in the marketing system. In the early years of the first co-operative dairies were erected people said they would fail. But the dairies were wrong. They were not built on a sound basis. They increased the mutual confidence among the members. The farmers were not afraid to reveal their own milk because watering the milk would cheat a neighbor, whereas formerly it was a mere middleman who was cheated.

Watering of milk for other fraud is rare. Milk is paid for according to percentage of butterfat. Hens are co-operatively paid for according to the weight of the eggs. The farmers are not afraid to reveal their own milk because watering the milk would cheat a neighbor, whereas formerly it was a mere middleman who was cheated.

GOES TO BED WITH CHICKS TO PROTECT THEM FROM PESTS

"Going to bed with the chickens" is a saying which is followed by very few people these days. The saying is, however, followed by a Union who had 211 small chicks one evening and the next morning had 151. During the night some rats had not only eaten the chicks but had also eaten the eggs. The farmer had a house and now every night he guards his chicks very carefully by being with them.

Winter Crops Came Through Good Shape

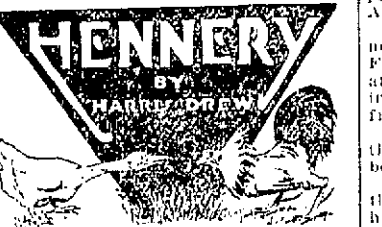

Madison—Winter grains, alfalfa and red clover came through the winter season in good condition. Although all crops and farm work is being done, the weather is satisfactory and encouraging.

Only a few farmers in southern Wisconsin had finished seeding by the first of May. Some of the farmers in the north had not yet begun seeding.

SHORTHORN BREAKS PRODUCTION MARK

Melba 15th, Makes Official Record 29,755 Pounds Milk, 1395 Fat in 300 Days.

Melba 15th of Barabara, a Milk-shorthorn, has proven she is no freak.

On three milkings a day in 300 days official testing, the Australian cow has made a record of 29,755 pounds of milk and 1,395 pounds of butterfat.

On a previous run milked twice a day, Melba made as a four year old a run of 25,555 pounds of milk and 1,195 pounds of fat in 300 days, still a record for this number of milkings a day. On the next freshening period, Melba was put on three milkings a day and again made a record of 29,755 pounds of milk and 1,395 pounds of butterfat in the year's time.

Completing this record of 1,315 pounds of fat in a year in January 1922, it was April of 1923 before she was dry. She freshened in June of 1923 and during the dry period increased in eight months from 1,638 pounds to 2,125 pounds before making the new record run. Melba 15th, a paternal sister of Melba 14th, completed a year and 300 days record of 29,755 pounds of milk and 1,395 pounds of butterfat in a year, milked three times a day. The Melbas are owned by the British-Australian Investment Company of Canada, New South Wales. They are descendants from an early importation of Shorthorns into Australia and in a family has been developed for five generations. Melba 15th completes the 255 days of her present lactation period during which she has made her record, having calving in 1920 and 1,500 and 1,600 pounds of butterfat in the 365 days.

Plan Scientific Food Preparation for All Inmates

Madison—Scientific supervision of food preparation, food supplies and meals of several thousand inmates of state charitable and penal institutions is planned by the state board of control. It was revealed with the announcement that the board has selected Miss Laura Paville of Lake Mills, Wis., as state dietitian of the institutions under the control body.

The plan will be carried out through direction of the state dietitian and health institutional dietitians in each of the hospitals and schools under the board's supervision. It is said, through the local and state dietitians, it is expected that meals and food for the inmates will be especially planned and supervised as a means of building up more healthful conditions and assisting in recovery of patients.

The dietitian plan is another new inauguration by the board of control recently appointed. It has met with favor of superintendents and heads of the institutions, according to board members, having been discussed at length at the state conference here recently.

Miss Paville, the state supervisor, has had considerable experience as a dietitian. It is said, she will take over duties with the board next Wednesday.

ZAYAS WINS SUPPORT IN STRUGGLE WITH CUBAN REBELS WITH BRAVERY AND RADIO

President Alfredo Zayas broadcasting an appeal from his office in the presidential palace in Havana.

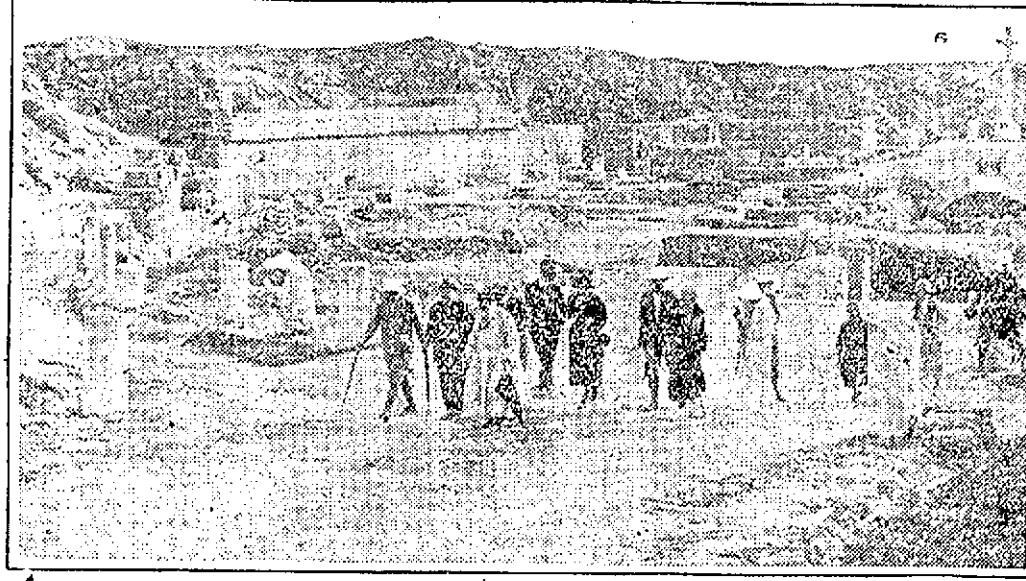

Where other executives have hidden themselves away while the shooting was going on, President Alfredo Zayas of Cuba is winning supporters to his side in his battle with revolutionary elements by the open way in which he is handling the situation. He is dividing his time between revolts scenes, the first executive ever to do so, and the presidential palace in Havana, where he has radio equipment in his office to broadcast appeals to the people.

When these two little boys, cousins and pals, grow up they will be kings. Providing democracy does not capture the Balkans, Peter son of King Alexander, will one day sit upon the throne of Yugoslavia, the king of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and Michael will inherit the rulership of Roumania. He is the son of the crown prince, Carol. Both are grandsons of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Roumania.

WHERE LOST CHAPTERS IN HISTORY ARE BEING RECOVERED

View of the unearthed ruins of Carthage, showing the amphitheater, which was in the Roman style. The cross marks the spot where St. Felicitas was martyred.

Lost chapters in history will be partially recovered by excavations being made on the site of ancient Carthage by an expedition of French and Americans.

Carthage on the African coast, was once the most powerful trade city on the Mediterranean. It was totally destroyed by the Romans in 146 B. C. after three wars known in history as the Punic Wars. The fighting began more than a hundred years previous. The first campaign was from 264 to 241 B. C., the second, from 218 to 201 B. C., and the third, and last, from 149 to 145 B. C.

DRY CONGRESSMAN BOOMED BY DEMS FOR VICE PRESIDENT

HE DIDN'T LIKE U. S., SO CARUSO'S WIDOW IS MINUS HER NEW ENGLISH HUSBAND

William D. Upshaw.

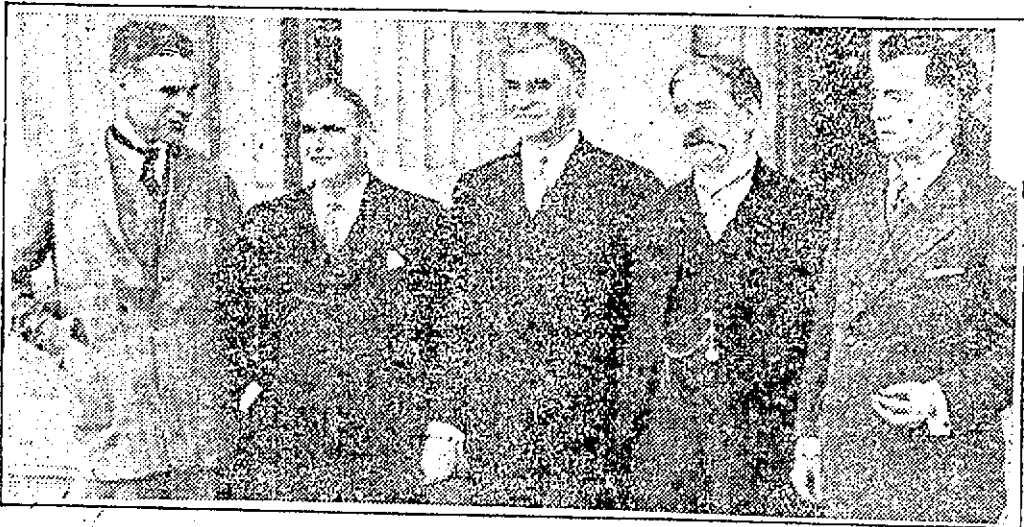

Representative William D. Upshaw of Georgia, evangelist, dry leader, teacher, merchant and farmer, is being strongly advocated for the Democratic nomination for vice president. He has announced he is willing to accept. As a result of a fall from a wagon in his youth he has continued through life on crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ingram and Mrs. Ingram's daughter, Gloria Caruso.

He objected to the crudeness of the United States in general and his wife's friends at Palm Beach, where they were honeymooning, in particular. She resented his fault finding and told him that he could go back to England. He took the next boat. That, friends explain, is the reason why a divorce is expected shortly to sever the bonds which united Captain E. A. Ingram of the British army and Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the famous tenor, last November.

HEAR PRO AND CON OF U. S. PARTICIPATION IN WORLD COURT

Again the question of American entry into the world court organized by the League of Nations is getting attention in Washington. A sub-committee of the senate is preparing to hear and discuss views pro and con on participation by the United States in the court, in which one American, John Bassett Moore, sits as judge. The members of the sub-committee are Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota; Frank B. Brandegee, Republican, of Connecticut; George Wharton Pepper, Republican, of Pennsylvania; Claude A. Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, and Key Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada.

HEIR TO MILLIONS NOW A WANDERER, BANISHED BY COURT FROM HIS HOME

J. T. Milliken, Jr., and the home he cannot go to.

Too much money. That's the cause of all the troubles of J. T. Milliken, Jr., heir to millions. He now is a wanderer because a St. Louis court, wearied by ceaseless escapades that began when he was 14 years old, banished him from the state of Missouri. His father, gold mine and oil magnate, left an iron clad will which bars him from his inheritance until he reforms. The banishment by the court followed a shooting scrape.

NEW WORLD'S DISTANCE RECORD FOR HELICOPTERS SET

The Pescara helicopter in flight and a closeup of the inventor, seated, the cockpit of the machine.

France is now more hopeful than ever it will win the race of nations of the world to build the first practical helicopter, or vertical-rising flying machine, since M. Pescara, French airman, set a new world's record for sustained helicopter flight.

In a trial of a machine of his invention at Issy-les-Moulineux, he kept it in flight for a distance of more than 800 yards. The former mark was 200 yards.

They're coming back from over the hill. After living nearly all their lives in poverty, Mrs. Peter Fenster and Mrs. Charles Sullivan, aged sisters, one of them an inmate of an almshouse, have more money than they know what to do with. They have fallen heirs to an estate of more than $1,000,000 left by a relative in England, where they were born.

ART COLONY "VENUS" TRIES TO KILL HERSELF WHEN JILTED BY "ADONIS"

Miss Constance McDermott.

When Adonis jilted Venus she attempted to commit suicide. Not mythology, but FACT. Miss Constance McDermott, known as "Venus" in the Chicago art colony, took poison when Gail Erwin, noted "Adonis" model of the colony, told her he didn't love her. Her life was saved. She's going back to Minnesota when she is fully recovered.

WIDOW IS ACCUSED OF PLOTTING DEATH OF FIRST WIFE OF HER LATE HUSBAND

The Eggleston home in Larned, Kan., and Mrs. Eggleston (below), David Ely (upper right), and W. C. Pool (lower right).

The town of Larned, Kan., is stirred by charges made against Mrs. Mary K. Eggleston, widow of E. E. Eggleston, pioneer merchant. She is accused of plotting to end the lives of David Ely, real estate man, and Mrs. Laura Eggleston, first wife of Eggleston. W. C. Pool, a laborer, told police the accused woman tried to hire him to give poison to Ely and Mrs. Laura Eggleston. That failing, he was to shoot them. Mrs. Mary Eggleston denies all of the charges. Ely says he believes her.

SEARCH FOR MISSING U. S. AIRMAN IN VICINITY OF AKUTAN IS FAILURE

The harbor of Akutan, with the Akutan volcano in the background.

Search of waters and coves in the vicinity of Akutan, in the Aleutian Island, 350 miles west of Chignik, Alaska, failed to reveal a trace of the missing Major P. L. Martin, commander of the army's round-the-world flight, and his plane, the Seattle, reported to have been seen near there. Akutan is a whaling station. It boasts a population of nine families of natives.

MOTORIST'S

How to Tune up the Carburetor for Spring Touring

Every automobile owner who takes an interest in his car likes to hear the engine running smoothly and evenly, and be "there" when you open up the throttle for a little speed. Power and pep depend to a large extent on proper carburetor adjustment. During the cold weather, the gasoline vaporizes very slowly, and for this reason the carburetor is set to deliver a "rich" mixture. During the summer the gasoline vaporizes easily and accordingly the carburetor must be adjusted to deliver a "lean" mixture. If the mixture is too rich you will have trouble with the plugs fouling and the engine overheating during the warm weather.

During the last few weeks I have been showing you how to check up the spark plugs, valves, wiring, battery etc. and put them in good condition. It is impossible to tune up the carburetor properly if other parts of the engine are not in good order. If a plug is misfiring or a valve not seating properly, the engine will run with an uneven jerky motion no matter what you do to the carburetor.

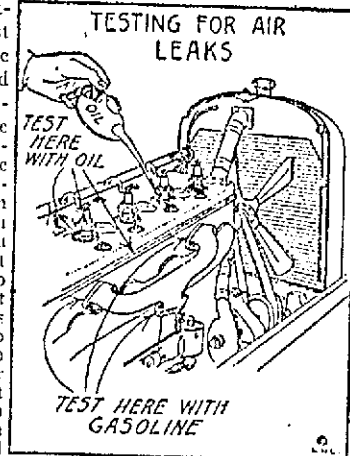

Before touching any adjustments on the carburetor, first test to see that the joints between the carburetor intake manifold and cylinders are air tight. The easiest way to do this is to set the throttle so that the engine is running slowly, then squirt a little gasoline around the joints, noticing if it makes any difference in the speed of the engine. If you notice it speeds up, when you squirt the gasoline over a joint, it shows that it is leaking air, so tighten the joint and then test again. If you find tightening does not stop the leak, you will have to fit a new gasket. Examine also the joint between the cylinder head and the block and see that all spark plugs are screwed in tightly. Leaks at these points can be detected by running some oil around them and watching if bubbles appear.

To adjust the carburetor, start the engine and let it warm up thoroughly by running for 15 or 20 minutes. If you try to adjust the carburetor when the engine is cold, the mixture will be altogether too rich when it is warmed up.

On most carburetors there are two adjustments, one for low speed and the other for high speed. Look up the instruction book, you and where the high and low speed adjustments are located. Some carburetors have a fixed adjustment which is set at the factory for best all-round results, and if you have this kind of carburetor fitted to your car, DO NOT TOUCH IT. Other carburetors have adjustable jets which can be altered to vary the richness of the mixture according to the season of the year. The same general principles apply to practically all carburetors and all are tuned up along the lines described below.

If there is a slow speed adjustment, fully retard the spark lever and close the throttle as far as possible without causing the engine to stop. Now turn the low speed adjusting screw up or down until the engine runs smoothly and evenly. If it runs too fast or stops altogether when the throttle is closed, you will find a screw on the throttle arm which should be turned in or out with the point of a screwdriver until the engine idles properly.

To adjust the high speed, advance the spark lever to the usual position on the quadrant when the car is running about 25 miles an hour, and open the throttle until the engine is running at a moderate speed. Now turn down the high speed adjusting screw until the engine begins to slow down and pop back in the carburetor, then turn back slowly until the engine picks up speed and runs regularly. Stop turning the adjusting screw when the speed of the engine does not increase as you turn up the screw. To check the adjustment, keep the spark lever advanced but close the throttle to allow the engine to idle for about half a minute, then suddenly open the throttle wide open for a second and then close it. If the adjustment is correct, the engine will respond instantly and accelerate the moment you open the throttle, but there should be no black smoke or strong smell of unburned gasoline come from the exhaust. If, when you open up the throttle, with the spark lever advanced, the engine starts to pop back in the carburetor, it shows that the mixture is still a little weak, so turn up the high speed adjustment a trifle and test again. After you have run car about 50 or 60 miles, take out a spark plug and examine it. If the mixture is correct, the porcelain will be clean, but if it is too rich, then it will be covered with a dry, black soot. In this case, you will have to turn the adjustment down a little more to make the mixture weaker.

Auburn English Coach

It is a totally new idea in closed cars—a REAL Sedan. New type body construction permits greater strength with less weight and avoids the faults of ordinary top-heavy and cumbersome Sedans.

Curves are its theme. Rounded rear and sides with high European waist, blend into a symmetry of original lines low and clean as a projectile.

Full equipment is standard on Auburn cars and the English Coach has five balloon tires, of course, disc wheels, front bumper, and all things necessary for comfort, convenience and smart appearance. One of the new features is the dual-ventilation in the cowl and curved visor at top.

Let us tell you about our sales plan. Our shop is fully equipped to take care of the most difficult repair work and our mechanics are highly skilled and experienced.

CHAMPION DEBATERS

White-water—Here is a picture showing the champion White-water debaters during the year. The school had one of its most successful seasons against the Platteville, Ia. Crosse and Superior normal teams, emerging with

GAZETTE GOOD TIMES CLUB FOR ALL SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

BY FLORENCE SLOW HIDE.

All of the pupils in Newark Center school have won a sufficient number of prizes during the year to be eligible for the "Good Times" club. An average of 80 points for 100 minutes from Nov. 1 to May 1 inclusive is required for these prizes. Points were awarded for participation in recreation programs, athletic events, a good citizenship service and educational achievements. The record was set by the teacher and names of those entitled to the honor prize were reported to the club editor by May 1. Thus far Newark center is the only school that has reported a list of names. Pupils making this splendid record are: Donald Anderson, Hazel Hagen, Edwin Swain, Gerald Lindeman, Gladys Lindeman, Albert East, Milton Thorsen, Miss Margaret Davis is the teacher. Those who have not yet reported their names, but have not tried to carry out the full point schedule as announced in the fall, are to receive "Good Times" club prizes by May 15. Names of all who are entitled to either of these prizes.

Prize contest winners will be announced next Saturday. Reports for six months are being summarized and will be reviewed by a committee of competent judges.

ZILLEY SENDS LIST

With the receipt of the past week's enrollments from pupils of Zilley school, town of Turtle, the following list from 100 per cent of the one-room school of Rock county. This goal was assumed some weeks ago. When the county superintendent for two schools that had not been enrolled in the club. About 25 pupils that enrolled last year have failed to enroll previously enrolled are kept on the membership roll and receive birthday cards and other benefits. Miss Josephine Zilley, teacher of Zilley school. Members are Leroy Carlson, Clifford L. Holmbeck, John Holmes, Robert Maxwell, Greenville J. Weber, Daniel A. Holmbeck, Arden Holmbeck, Leonard Holmbeck, Marlen Holmbeck.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

The tentative plan for the Gazette music memory contest for both one-room and state graded pupils is May 25. This appeared to be the only date that does not conflict with other events which the schools were to participate. Further announcement will be made within a few days.

Oxfordville seventh and eighth grades participated in a local contest in which five pupils made such good scores that permission has been given by the Gazette for the entire five to enter the inter-school contest. Clara Nelson, scored 100 per cent on name of composer, name and nationality of composer, and correct spelling. Evelyn and Elizabeth Swenson scored 95 each. Edith Kesey scored 90 and Hazel Husted, 87. Those who participate in the inter-school contest will be expected to write two or three sentences describing each selection or giving supplementary information about selection or composer. A trial will be given for the contest on the name of composer, name and nationality of composer, and correct spelling. For this reason, contestants who may not be prepared to write the supplementary sentences are urged to try for perfect score plus. A booklet containing information about selections and composers will be sent free to any school sending request to the club editor. A complimentary musical and motion picture program will be given for contestants while the papers are being graded.

NEWS LETTERS

West County—Editor, Marietta Lezow, Reporter—"We are working very hard at school now. We have been reviewing for our examinations. Last Friday the Center spelling contest was held at our school. There were three girls from the Barret school, three from the Crall school, three from the Bog school, and three from the Allen school. For this reason, Margaret Anderson, Edna Korhan and I represented our school. We are now playing outdoor games. The girls play football and the boys play baseball. On Arbor Day we are going to make the school yard in the foreground and in the afternoon we are going to have our program. We got a new flag yesterday so we had a flag-raising this morning at nine o'clock. We gathered around the flag pole and gave the flag salute. We sang America and the beautiful Star Spangled Banner. Then we turned the old flag."

Hog School, Genevieve Collins, reporter—"We read about having the Gazette reporter for the vacation months and have elected Genevieve Collins, Janesville, Wis., R. D. 6, for this work. We have three more members in our school that wish to join the "Good Times Club." Their names are Alvin Oakes, Cecil McLean and Joseph McLean. The teachers in Center are going to meet in Center hall and plan our play day, next Wednesday night. Stewart Bantz made a different map and we have it sent in. The children who will get perfect attendance certificates this year are, Boyd Bailey,

BOARD DENIES ANY PROTESTS ON RATE

Reports of Probable Contests Result in Formal Statement.

Madison—Reports of protests and mobbing have caused the city board of insurance rates to issue a formal statement today from the compensation board denying that any protests had been filed by insurance companies with it and that the increase is unreasonable.

The increase, which is effective May 1, was given by the city board because insurance companies writing workmen's compensation risks were losing money and because "some might ultimately have been threatened with insolvency."

"There has been some misunderstanding in the state as to the necessity for the increase," the board declared. "The viewpoint of the board is that not only the rates must be considered but the solvency of the companies."

"The order for this increase was upon the basis of the present situation and after a public hearing held by the board. The increase is equitable and in line with the requirements of the statutes providing for the solvency of companies."

No Protests Made.

"No insurance company made an application for an increase over and above the present rate level. Neither has any company petitioned for a survey of the present situation and after a public hearing held by the board. The increase is equitable and in line with the requirements of the statutes providing for the solvency of companies."

Secretary Droughton also stated that the insurance companies are through their "non-pardonable attitude" proposed an increase in present rates considerably in excess of that determined and approved by the state board. An increase in the rates of compensation companies also was requested by an underwriters bureau it was said.

Health Center

in Clinton May 15

The next Rock county mother and baby health center will be held May 15th from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. at the Clinton graded school building. Dr. Cora Allen, a state board of health physician, will be present to examine children under six years of age and advise parents as to their general care, diet, and so forth. She will also hold conferences with expectant mothers.

There will be a demonstration of a model baby and other useful garments, and free patterns will be distributed, making it easy for any woman to make the articles herself.

Now that the roads are in good condition many more rural babies are being brought to the center, and it is hoped this good attendance will continue through the summer. There will not be many more meetings in Clinton as the center will be moved to some other part of the county by fall.

Ripon College

Seeks $600,000

Ripon college is planning a drive for $600,000, starting May 15, to place the college on a firm financial basis, the program calling for one new dormitory, the elimination of all debts and a $400,000 increase to the present endowment fund. The canvassing will end May 25. Present students have pledged $27,000.

Alumni and friends of the college have been appointed as canvassers in the southern counties of Wisconsin being:

Stock—Clarence Abendroth, county chairman; Ernest Longenecker, Beloit.

Jefferson—May Beach, Ft. Atkinson; county chairman; Ann Griffiths, Watertown; Rachel Mills, Lake Mills; Walworth—Edith Rogers, county chairman; Raymond Petrie, White-water.

Iowa and Richland—The Rev. A. J. Schoenfeld, chairman.

Don't forget to take your kodak with you tomorrow.

Buy at Home

Home Builders and Home Owners are the greatest assets any city can have. Both are interdependent--build one and you automatically build the other

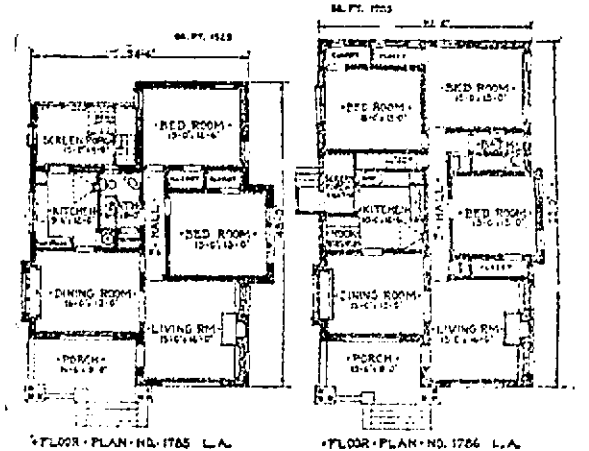

Many articles are needed in building a home and many tradespeople participate. First comes the lot, the title, loans; after these plans, boards, rafters, joists, shingles, plaster, paint, hardware, etc. The construction completed, before you are ready to move in there must be furniture for parlor, dining-room, bedroom and kitchen; library lamps, gas and electric fixtures, a piano, victrola, floor coverings, etc., then comes the housewife's department store—silverware, dishes, kitchen utensils and linens. After the home is completely furnished, the grocery, bakery, dry-goods, clothing, drugs, book stores must be visited—a seemingly endless list of necessities are daily required.

Where are you going to purchase all these home articles, furnishings and necessities? In your home town, of your home merchants, of course

These men right here at home have your interests at heart in a greater degree than can be the case with some far-away dealer. They are your friends. They call you "Bill" or "Tom" or "Joe." They realize that your new home will add to the prosperity of the town, as well as to your own. They even grant you credit at times when the circumstances warrant, in order that you may get over the rough spot in the life road.

Their stocks are adequate and well selected. They have anticipated your desires and have provided for your needs. They are heavy taxpayers and thus stand back of your home and investment and contribute both time and money in helping to make the home town a better place in which to live. Be a really home-town family, in reality as well as in name, by making all of your purchases of your home merchants. Their window displays, advertisements, etc., convey opportunities not surpassed anywhere, and when quality and durability are considered are as reasonable as you will be able to find anywhere.

This weekly page is but another example of their desire to aid you in a home and stand ready to give you any assistance. The editors of these pages are constantly devising new models of comfortable, attractive dwellings and these are at your disposal if you will address your inquiry to "Home Building Editor," this paper. The following reliable and enterprising firms are uniting in this campaign to aid and encourage home builders. Note the representative names of those who advise you to build a home at once—and remember, now is the time to make the start.

This Bungalow Home of brick construction presents many unique and distinctive features, all of which add to its attractiveness, making appeals for its adoption. The header course of brick running entirely around the home at floor line breaks the plain wall and is very effective. A header course of brick is also designed under windows, chimney and porch cappings.

The interior arrangement is clearly shown in the alternate floor plans featured. It isn't necessary to cover these in detail; however, a careful study will convey many features not usually found in homes this size, all of which make strong appeals to those who are seeking maximum conveniences combined with attractiveness at minimum cost.

The Home Building Editor will gladly advise with you regarding plans or any additional information you may be desirous of obtaining—mail letter care this paper.

Here are the names of some enterprising firms and individuals in your city who are so interested in you that they are paying good money to put this page before you. They advise you to make the attempt at home owning and "landlording" at once. They have also retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly give you valuable advice in making your plans. Address inquiries to "Home Building Editor," care this paper.
